Volunteer Description

ABR is operated entirely by volunteers who share a love for bicycling. The main goals of the organization are to teach bicycle maintenance skills, to rescue bicycles, and to distribute them to the community. ABR strives to teach members to maintain their own bicycles so they can in turn teach others what they have learned.

Although a bicycle mechanic is the most obvious volunteer role, the organization welcomes people with many other types of skills. Some of the other skills include: community outreach, event planning, teaching, leadership, organizational, administrative, computer programming, writing, graphic design, photography, construction, and driving/transporting.
